DIEME ON THE WING.

Unthered and Compiled Exclusively for the Saturday Edition of the "National

The rost week has been a memorable on in all classes of society. The continuation of dedicatory services of the Matropolitan A. M. E. Church are about completed, and it is one of the grandest temples of worship of its kind in the world, and a fitting monument to the men who have worked faithfully for the religious and intellectual improvement of the people. The achteve-ments of our ministers in the past twentyments of our ministers in the past twenty-five years are marvelous. In 1863 4,000,000 of initerate men and women were emanci-pated. They were poor, homeless, and de-spised, and some of their best friends counted the propriety of immediate emanci-pation; others that were loyal and patriotic predicted that the contrabands would emigrate to the northern states in such vast numbers as would create a revolution be-tween them and the middle classes of so-ciety. Philosophers and statemen of the preserved that the contracting south as the problem and the middle classes of society. Philosophera and statesmen of the European continent discussed the question of immediate emancipation in America from all of its standpoints, and predicted that the consequences of such an act would entail upon this provenment an enormous amount of trouble. In view of all of these unfavorable predictions and circumstances, there arose a class of men identified with the new American citizen that immodiately stepped to the front and assumed the responsibility of the management and controlling of the largest body of uncultivated men and women ever emancipated. Among them were Douglass, Payoe, Clinton, Wayman, Ward, Campbell, Bishop, Brown, Turner, Tanner, Rock, Smalls, O'Hara, Reveils, Dickerson, Elliot, Arnett, Shorter, Downing, Bell, Ware, Still, Smith, Williams, Nesbit, Johnson, Embry, Straker, Joues, Handy, Simms, Cromwell, Bronnell, Moore, Bruce, Rainey, Clark, Puris, Cook, and many other patriotic and loyal men who gave their time, talent, and money and succeeded in stresting a people that were destitute of the commonest necessities of American citizenship and in placing them on the high road to prosperity and success. They, knowing the capabilities and possibilities of the colorer people of this country, have been successful in solving the great negro problem, and it remains for posterity to pay the proper tribute to this galaxy of America's great and good men.

The dedicatory services at the Metropolitan A. M. E. Church on M. street, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth, streets northwest, last evening, were of a very interesting and impressive character. Under the leaderably of Prof. Leighton, Miss. Hattin Handy, of the choir, rendered finely a solo, and other hymns followed, accompanied by the grand organ, which gave much pleasure to the nullence. Dr. B. T. Tanner, of the choir, rendered finely a solo, and other hymns followed, accomplish in their now improved condition for their own race and for the common weal.

The question of color appears at thistime to be creating considerable stir among a lot of people, that amounts to nothing in the estimation of ladies and gentlemen. In the affairs of life what does it amount to whether a person is black, half white, or a brown skin, so they have some qualities of value and importance about them? The highest maxim of valuation is money and istelligence and capability, and whoever possesses these qualities will, by the natural law of evolution, raise head and shoulders above the trash that is always talking about color.

Mr. Derrick, Brother Stevenson, and several other gentlemen came all the way from Albany, accompanied with Mr. Matthews, to inform the United States Republican senators that he is a colored man and offensive Democrat; that they should confirm base ingratitude and place in office an emancipated negro. The time has not yet strived, nor has the echo from the sound of Jefferson Davis's voice died out, nor have the wounds nor the scars of the men been lealed yet, and the blood of the massacred of Carroliton, Miss., been attoned for by the party that has by murder and intimidation disfranchised eight tenths of the colored people of America, and until this is done will any United States Republican senator be credited with having voted for him?

The Rev. W. D. Johnson, D. D., secretary of the educational board of the A. M. E. Church, is in the city.

How the Duffy Mart Whiskey Company Deal With Infringers.

this city, have rather a summery way of dealing with imitators and infringers on their rights. It has only been six months ago since they had arrested and put under $20,000 ball one of the largest wholesale druggiets of New York state, on the charge of refilling their bottles, a full account of which appeared in the daily papers. Their latest move was the arrest a few days ago of Matthew & J. S. Perrine, of Pulladelphis, on two separate charges—one of conspiracy and the other of attempt to chest and defraud by putting up a whiskey in a package in imitation of that used by the Duffy Mait Whiskey Company for their Duffy's Pare Mait Whiskey. The Perrines are an old-established liquor house, reputed to be worth $200,000. As will be seen by this, the Duffy people have to contend with an entirely different class of imitators from those by whom most manufacturers of proprietsry articles are annoged. They seem equal to the occasion, however, and, instend of bringing their suits in the civil courts for injunctions and damages, which frequently consume from three to five years before they reach a hearing, they bring them in a few short months. This is a new departure in cases of the kind, and their suits are being watched with interest throughout the country.

"Did it not surprise you?" said a reporter to a representative of the Duffy Company, "that a house of the standing of Perrine & Co., should risk their reputation and business bonor by stooping to practices of this kind?" "Were they not content with a fair competition?" "Not at all. Why since the introduction of our goods there have sprung up in Philadelphia alone (where we sell from $20,000 to $20,000 a month) about fifteen different malt whisteles, many of them trying to resp the benefit of our name and prestige, but if you will notice there is not a single one of them that claims to be able to furnish the public with an article containing no fusel oil, nor can they produce a grown of the whiskies as there are of any other whiskies. Now as not ompetition; there is From the Land of Flowers.

APOLPRA CITY, SOUTH FLORIDA, May 17, 1886. - EDITOR NATIONAL REPUBLICAN Will you allow me just a niche in your journal to say a word from this weird, frost bitten peninsula to cherished friends in their brighter northern homes. I have no ambition to add a syllable to much that has been said by the many who seemed to have come bither simply to echo; some of which the honest inquirer finds to be true; but more that is ficticious, unreal, and misleading. * * * I have fairly wintered in this semi-tropical region of pine and hammock lands, with lakes and reptiles "ad infinitum," of which something may

This saintly man seems nearest the char-This saintly man seems nearest the character which Eusebius gives of the "Apostolic Fathers," who immediately followed the "immortal twelve." "Parson Vedder" clearly understands the primary tenure and history of our "Central M. E. Church at Washington," loves Dr. N., and traces his steps with pleasure, from a certain New Orsesses with pleasure, prob history of our "Central M. E. Church at Washington," loves Dr. N., and tranes his steps with pleasure, from a certain New Orleans murderons mob * * to the "sick chamber" of the greatest man and "hero of the age." The bishop sends his benediction to the church at Washington, and joins devout thousands in congratulating the doctor and his church upon their reunion. Whatever fortuity or methods of order may have compassed the doctor's return to a charge where, under his former tact and labors, the church had risen to an alifude (for good) which justly entitled it to the distinction of "standing alone" in the sunals of American Methodism, I am sure its true friends will ever pray the Good Shepherd to preserve this church in its unique entity * * as a ward of the whole M. E. Church for still wider usefulness. Dr. Newman deserves the meed for having "as run to to win," and that amid stalwart foes, and under the argus eye of prudish, exacting orthodoxy, maliguing editorial missives, and the virus of hate from siums of a baser sort. * * Not unlike his envied compeer. Bishop Taylor, who one moment was under the ban of a missionary hereay" * and the next (unwittingly) was on the "banch" of bishops, as solid as St. Peter, and anon had crossed the ocean, * * fired by the last words of the immortal Cox, had kindled his camp fires, half athwart the dark continent, and that too, while his watchers were yet scratching their matches to see what erratte thing would next "turn up." * * So with Pastor Newman leaving in the distance * those who cast the stones and they who held the clothes," only pausing once and then, like the good samaritan, to lift a wounded, rent, and bleeding church * * to its feet and poor oil into its wounds," and today, I learn from Washington prints, and from home friends, that the doctor, as aforetime, has filled his immense church with anxious hearers—and is urging his mombers up to all the activities of church work we amd leading his flock to that higher plane of Christian life * * for which the M. saw York, June 4.—There was considerable covering of shorts last night, and this morning's market opened firm. There was very little news in the morning to affect values, and the market was heavy for a short time. Later there was an announcement of a reduction in sterling excharge rates, and this started an upward movement, although little attention was paid to the reduction in the price of sliver. The opening this morning was generally at light advances, but trading was quiet and there seemed to be no demand for stocks. Prices sagged off a shade, but after 11 o'clock the market was taken hold of again and under increased activity prices moved steadily until the last hour, highest prices being reached in the neighborhood of 2 p. m. There was a decline of small fractions, but the market closed firm near the best figures of the day.

The total sales to-day were 335,105 shares. St. Paul was most active, furnishing 48,000 shares, but was closely pressed by Omsha common with 48,005 shares. Northwestern was third with 26,220 shares.
